
Subject: Re: Date format problem
Posted by haribole on Sun, 06 Aug 2006 15:27:58 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Thanks Tony

Here is my srisri.dict.inc

I compared this to an existing working dict.inc, and looks identical.

Hari

```
<?php
// file created on August 4, 2006, 4:12 pm

// field specifications for table aol.srisri
$fieldspec['id'] = array('type' => 'integer',
                          'size' => 4,
                          'auto_increment' => 'y',
                          'minvalue' => -32768,
                          'maxvalue' => 32767,
                          'pkey' => 'y',
                          'required' => 'y');

$fieldspec['date'] = array('type' => 'date',
                           'size' => 12,
                           'required' => 'y');

$fieldspec['city'] = array('type' => 'string',
                           'size' => 50,
                           'required' => 'y');

$fieldspec['country'] = array('type' => 'string',
                             'size' => 50,
                             'required' => 'y');

$fieldspec['info'] = array('type' => 'string',
                           'size' => 50,
                           'required' => 'y',
                           'control' => 'multiline',
                           'cols' => 50,
                           'rows' => 5);

// primary key details
$this->primary_key = array();

// unique key details
$this->unique_keys = array();
```

```
// child relationship details
$this->child_relations      = array();

// parent relationship details
$this->parent_relations     = array();

// determines if database updates are recorded in an audit log
$this->audit_logging        = TRUE;

// default sort sequence
$this->default_orderby       = "";

// finished
?>
```
