Do not confuse the small sample application with the larger Radicore application. The sample application has everything in a single directory whereas Radicore has a series of different subsystems each in its own subdirectory.

If you look inside the Radicore structure you will clearly see that the files 'sys.language_text.inc' and 'sys.language_array.inc' exist ONLY in the 'menu' subsystem. It is a waste of time putting them anywhere else as they will be ignored.
