Subject: Re: PDF Document Margin Setup
Posted by gpatti on Tue, 21 Oct 2008 15:05:02 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Tony,

I haven't done any testing with the margins yet, but I noticed that when printing a document on a couple of different printers, the actual font appears to be a slightly different size. This could partially explain why the XY coordinates appear to be in a different position. However, there also 'appears' to be some scaling going on, as in some cases the text appears slightly to the left and in other cases slightly to the right (could be due to the effect of centering with a different size font).

I am just using the standard embedded Arial font.

Any suggestions what might be causing this type of effect?