Subject: Modify $report within the code

I have made great progress with a solution for selecting letter types dynamically within an application. What would really make this neat would be the ability to use a single output2 script controller and dynamically set the $where and $report parameters according to the letter selected by the user in a popup.

The $where setting is no problem but it's not currently possible (I think) to dynamically set $report. Is this something that could be achieved easily, or via a code workaround?
