Subject: Remote access to Radicore app

I have developed an application which runs when I access it from the host system.

Since the system is intended to be used across a wide area network / VPN I have tried to access the server from other PCs - currently just on a LAN.

My Windows PC loads the <remotehost>/menu/logon.php page but when I click on the logon link I get the error:
"This application has encountered an unrecoverable error
Please contact your system administrator for details" I have no details beyond that, sorry.

I get the same error from my other Linux box, even before the menu/logon page loads.

I can access phpMyAdmin with no problem from both remote machines and have rights to all the /var/www directories where the radicore files reside.

I can't believe that apps developed in radicore can't be run remotely.

Thanks for any pointers.
