Subject: Re: Error running output2 pattern
Posted by AJM on Sun, 06 Jul 2014 08:38:35 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

None of my OUTPUT2 tasks fail in this way, so there must be something wrong in your code. This type of error is caused by something being output, which could be a single blank line, before the script tries to produce its own output. I suggest you take a look at your scripts to see if there are any blank lines either before the opening "<?php" or after the closing "?>".