I am renaming my db fields, and will try again.
It is not necessary to convert the column names in your database, you can convert the contents of the $where string instead. I have to do this in the framework in those places where I have two foreign keys on a table which link to the same primary key, such as in the MNU_MENU table where menu_id and task_id_jnr both link to MNU_TASK.task_id. In cases like this it is simply not possible to rename the two foreign keys to match the same primary key, so I must deal with this in the code.
