Subject: Re: Open a new window from RADICORE
Posted by AJM on Sat, 17 Oct 2015 09:09:58 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

A navigation button points to a task on the MNU_TASK table. The MNU_TASK record also has a script_id field which is the name of the script which is associated with this task. Note that task_id and script_id are different fields so they can have different values. Provided that script_id points to a script in the file system it will be executed. This script does not have to be one that is generated by the framework, nor does it have to be built on one of the page controllers which are built into the framework. This means that you are free to write your own custom controller to do whatever you want.