If you look at the formatData() method inside std.table.class.inc you will see that it can only format date fields if those fields have entries in the $fieldspec array which identifies them as having a type of 'date' or 'datetime'. If your output contains a field which does not have an entry in the $fieldspec array then it cannot be formatted and will be output as-is. You can fix this by manually updating the $fieldspec array in the _cm_changeConfig() method.
