Each line in your output has a label and a value, but at present you have everything as different lines in a 'multi1' element. What I am saying is that you should have your 2nd line as a 'multi2', your 3rd line as a 'multi3', et cetera. This also means that you would have to adjust your _cm_output_multi() method, but when you don't have anything to be printed on a particular line then you return nothing for that line.
