I don't know what facilities your hosting company provides, but mine supplies a control application called cPanel. I have several domains which are hosted on the same server, and cPanel provides me with the mechanism to specify the document root for each one. The default document root is "/public_html", but for one of them called "forum.radicore.org" I changed it to "/public_html/fud307". Easy Peasy Lemon Squeezy.
