Subject: Re: include path
Posted by AJM on Wed, 18 Jul 2007 16:47:43 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

The include_path is initially defined in your PHP.INI file, but can also be modified using the correct instruction in an htaccess file (if you are using Apache). It can also be modified using the ini_set() function in your PHP code.

In order to check that the htaccess file is being properly processed you need to run the phpinfo() function. Simply create a script called 'phpinfo.php' with the following contents
<?php phpinfo(); ?>, put in in your web root, then run it from your browser.

If the contents of the htaccess file are not being processed, perhaps you have not configured Apache to deal with htaccess files. Details are provided in the installation instructions.