Subject: Re: Parent-Child table relationships
Posted by adamsp on Tue, 24 Jul 2007 10:58:52 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Thanks. If I understand correctly, it is a bit counterintuitive. In the relational database we define the foreign key in the SECONDARY table that points to a primary or unique key in a PRIMARY table. However, in Radicore, we setup the relationship in the PRIMARY table pointing to the column(s) in the SECONDARY table. Is this correct? (It appears to work this way).